xSonic Transducer Adaptor Cables

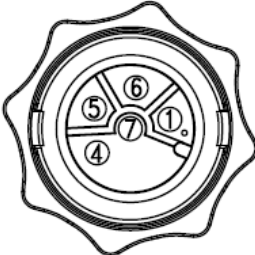

Product:	000-13977-001; 000-12571-001
Product Description:	9-pin to 7-pin transducer adaptor cables
Software Version:	N/A
Effective Date:	July 2017
Inspect/Update Current Inventory:	No

There are two types of adaptor cable available for use when connecting the new xSonic transducer to displays with a legacy 7-pin blue transducer plug. This document is intended to provide clarity around the transducer adaptor compatibility.

XID Transducers

Airmar’s XID function automatically identifies the connected transducer to your sonar. The sonar then sets the correct parameters for optimum performance automatically. The XID data sent to the sonar includes water temperature. Our xSonic CHIRP transducers incorporate this XID function.

Non XID Transducers

Transducers without the XID function have an analogue temperature sensor, which is read by the sonar to provide an accurate water temperature reading.

7-Pin Blue Connector and xSonic 9-Pin Connector

If the xSonic transducer is connected to a sonar module or display with the 9-pin sonar transducer socket, then no adaptor is required.

Adaptor Cables and where used

Part Number	Description	Where used
000-13977-001	9 to 7-pin XID adaptor with XID wire	Allows connection of 9-pin xSonic, XID transducers to 7-pin echo sounder
000-12571-001	9 to 7-pin adaptor with analogue temp	Allows connection of 9-pin xSonic transducers with analogue temp sensor and no XID

All Airmar CHIRP transducers have XID
All Airmar non-CHIRP transducers do not have XID.

- For all Airmar CHIRP transducers, the adaptor 000-13977-001 should be used
- For all Airmar non – CHIRP transducers, the adaptor 000-12571-001 should be used.

Please see the below list for confirmation.
